ANTIOCH MAN, DESPONDENT, IS GAS SUICIDE

Ben Slattland Is Found Lifeless in House on Depot Street

Choosing an exit from life as dreadful as it was certain, Ben Slattland, 55, Antioch, was found dead in the T. G. Rhodes house on Depot street, Saturday morning at 10:30, a gas suicide.

The last time that the victim was seen alive was Friday night when a neighbor saw him entering the house, where he had made his home for several months. He was not discovered until Saturday morning when Mr. Rhodes, who drove up to the house with a load of furniture, opened the front door and found the room filled with the deadly gas and Slattland lying on the floor before him lifeless. Undertaker Lee Strang was notified and the body was removed to the local morgue.

Believed To Have Been Despondent

It is thought that his act may be attributed to despondency following a who was a native of Norway, has period of heavy drinking. Slattland, made his home in Antioch for the last 15 or 20 years, depending upon money received from doing odd jobs and the generosity of the Antioch people for his maintenance. Those for whom he worked say that he was an honest and reliable laborer when he was not under the influence of liquor.

Prior to the time that he took up residence in the house where he committed suicide, he slept in the basement of the Rhodes shoe store and in the "Blackstone Hotel" in the rear of the Keulman building on Main street. Authorities have been unsuccessful in their attempt to locate any relatives, although he had been heard to say that he had two brothers living.

Coroner's Jury Declares Suicide

The coroner's jury, at an inquest held here Sunday, returned a verdict of suicide by means of illuminating gas.

Slattland had no personal effects in his pockets, a penny being all that authorities found.

Burial took place today in Home Oak cemetery, southeast of Antioch.

CORPORATION FEES COLLECTIONS WILL EXCEED 4,000,000

Increase This Year Will Be Half Million, William J. Stratton Says

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 14—Fees collected by the corporation department of his office will exceed $4,000,000 in 1930, Secretary of State William J. Stratton announced today.

In the first ten months of this year the collections of the department aggregated $3,377,436.39 as compared with $3,394,090.44 collected in the period of 1928. This is an increase of $493,395.95 for the ten months and the increase for the entire year probably will exceed $500,000.

The report of the corporation department shows that 5,132 domestic corporations were licensed to do business in this state in the first ten months of 1928. This compares with 5,521 licensed in the same period of this year, an increase of 389. On the same comparative basis the foreign corporation increased 196.

The collections of this department go into the general revenue fund in the state treasury and reduce the amount that must be raised by direct taxation of property to carry on the business of the state government.

The automobile department of the secretary of state's office, the greatest money raiser of all state departments will turn approximately $18,000,000 into the state treasury this year, inasmuch as the automobile license law provides all of this money shall go into the road fund, the annual collections of this department alone would pay for 600 miles of hard surfaced pavement at a cost of $30,000 a mile.

GREATEST STEP TAKEN TO END TRAFFIC JAMS

Chicago Area To Build Three Elevated Grade Separations Soon

By E. E. Duffy

Something has taken place in the highway world which definitely indicates that the automobile is to be recognized as a twentieth century machine.

The Lincoln Park district of Chicago has just adopted a bond issue which will provide for the building of two parallel 46-foot grade pavements on the outer drive to the north. In simple terms, a grade separation is a bridge over another thoroughfare.

This step is in itself a matter of fact statement, but to those who realize what that means in terms of lessened automobile congestion and injury and death, it is one of the most important highway actions yet taken.

This constitutes an ambitious undertaking, but the automobile in the city constitutes a gigantic problem, a problem which requires an unlimited amount of nerve to solve. Cities all over the country are facing the same dilemma—if such it can be called for there is only one thing to be done—attack the ailment as Chicago.

The grade separation has already proved its worth in Chicago, Wayne county, Michigan and elsewhere. Engineers have made estimates of the time wasted at busy intersections and have calculated that even in assigning a small value to motorists' time grade separations will shortly pay for themselves. Their figures, of course, do not estimate the cost of deaths and injuries and injuries and smashed cars.

Conklin Farm Is Purchased by Winnetka Pair

Proposing to make extensive improvements in the spring in accordance with architect's plans already in their possession, Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Ferry, of Winnetka, have purchased the Conklin farm of 223 acres and four additional tracts of land located in Section 24, Antioch township, and Section 19, Newport township, on the cement highway, one mile north of Millburn.

The four tracts are as follows: John Spofford, 13 acres; John White, 10 acres; William Reed, 10 acres; and Henry Taylor, 8 acres.

Mill creek runs one-half of a mile through this property. Choice timber covers about 100 acres. This land, adjoins the Outwells Hunt club and is one of the most beautiful tracts in the local region.

All crops and live stock were included in the purchase. Mr. and Mrs. Ferry will operate the farm as it has been in the past.

ANTIOCH IS IN HEART OF FAVORED REGION, MINNEAPOLIS MAN SAYS

E. S. DeLancey Lauds Re- gion in Talk Before An- tioch Business Club

"We are in the heart of the greatest region on earth," Ed. S. DeLancey, Minneapolis, general manager of the newly organized Trevor Cow and Horse Market, told Antioch business men assembled Monday night at the Antlers hotel for the monthly dinner and meeting of the Antioch Business club.

After months of research and studying of marketing conditions in the middle west, this locality was selected as the most logical point for the establishment of a commission market for cows and horses. Mr. DeLancey explained, stating that over 50,000 dairy cattle are bought within a day's truck drive of Trevor each year.

The Soo Line railroad is co-operating with the marketing concern by building sidings, sheds to house live stock, and other improvements that will represent an expenditure exceeding $10,000. Plans for the commission marketing company, which bids fair to become nationally known within a short time were explained in full by Mr. DeLancey and met with the hearty approval of the business men.

Road Matter Up Again

Methods and means for raising the $750 required to complete payment for right-of-way for the Lake Villa viaduct on Route 21 were discussed, with the result that President Shultz appointed a committee to make direct solicitation among business men and others here to secure the amount. It is understood that Lake Villa has raised its share of the money, $1,250, and Chas. K. Anderson, committee member who has kept in close touch with the situation, expressed belief that the state highway department would proceed with the completion of the road when the right-of-way was secured.

CITY BRIEFS

Mrs. Carrie Wilton, who was injured in an auto accident on Main street two weeks ago, is recovering and expects to leave the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, Friday or Saturday.

About 30 mothers took advantage of visiting day at the local grade school Tuesday.

Mrs. George Schlosser hurt her hand quite severely when she caught it in the clothes wringer Monday.

The F. R. Morrill home on Lake street has been quarantined for scarlet fever, Arthur, 11, being the victim.

L. B. Grice went to Chicago today. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mapleshorpe went to Chicago Monday; they heard Vice-president Curtis speak at Soldiers' Field and attended the dedication of the Edward Hines, Jr., hospital.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Kottelhut received word that they have arrived in San Benito, Texas, after a very delightful trip. Roads were good and the weather is fine and warm, they say.

COAL GAS CAUSES DEATH OF SECOND LAKE VILLA VICTIM

Walter Atwell, 83, Dies At Son's Home Following Relapse

Failing to recover from the effects of the deadly coal gas which caused the death of his wife and rendered him unconscious Wednesday morning at their home in Lake Villa, Walter Atwell, 83, died at the home of his son in Lake Villa Sunday.

Immediately following the discovery of the couple by their son, Henry Atwell, the aged man was removed to the home of his son, where medical science was administered. Although Dr. W. W. Warriner was not able to bring him back to consciousness until late Thursday, indications led him to believe that Atwell would recover following a long period of recuperation.

Thought To Be Recovering

With his condition showing steady improvement and his constitution standing him in good stead in his fight for life, hopes for his recovery were intensified by signs of improvement, until Friday, when he again lapsed back into a partial swoon, from which he was never fully released until his death.

Mr. Atwell is survived by four sons, Fred, Henry, William, and Albert, of this vicinity, and a daughter, Mrs. Nellie Wilson, of Zenda, Wis., by his first wife.

An inquest into the death of the aged man was held at the Straug Undertaking parlors Monday afternoon, the coroner's jury returning a verdict of death caused by gas, which escaped from a coal stove in the home.

The funeral services were held from Lake Villa M. E. church Tuesday afternoon.

Waukegan Man Is Robbed of $100

Seized by two men as he passed a driveway on Jackson st., Waukegan, at midnight Tuesday, Edward L. Salmon, proprietor of a store at 1220 Washington street, Waukegan, was hustled across the street into the dark and robbed of $100 in bills and several dollars in change, receipts from the store.

The men were evidently familiar with Salmon's habits, since few pedestrians are abroad in the neighborhood at that hour and the bandits apparently expected their victim to pass their hiding place. Leaping out from the driveway, they ordered him across the street where the shadows were heavier, and after stripping him of his money, bade him walk to the nearby corner of Clayton and Jackson streets, where they warned him not to make a movement or they would blow his head off.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norman in the Victory Memorial hospital Saturday afternoon.

STATE'S ATTORNEY A. V. SMITH MAY RUN FOR CONGRESS

Colonel Is Urged by Friends to Seek Chindblom's Post

Colonel A. V. Smith, who has served for almost ten years as state's attorney of Lake county, is being urged by friends to be a candidate for congressman in this district at primaries next April. It became known last week. Chief among the Colonel's supporters are the Spanish-American war veterans who promised support of that organization in a resolution forwarded to Col. Smith last Saturday.

It will be several weeks before Col. Smith will make his decision in the matter, he told friends Saturday.

His opponent would be Congressman Carl R. Chindblom, of Chicago, who has served the district since 1918.

In Politics Thirteen Years

The prosecutor has two years more of his term to serve. He entered politics shortly after the Villa Puntilla Expedition in 1916 when he was defeated for state's attorney.

With the entry of the United States in the World War, Col. Smith, who was the head of the National Guard company here, went overseas. Shortly before he returned the campaign for state's attorney began to take shape and he became a candidate for the office through his friends before he returned to native soil.

In a bitter fight he defeated Attorney William A. Deane, who was a candidate for election with the support of the retiring prosecutor, Jas. G. Welch. The vote was—Smith, 9,534; Deane, 3,113. That was in the primaries.

Contest in 1924

The 1924 primaries brought another contest with Col. Smith receiving 10,703 and his nearest opponent, Attorney Herman Litchfield, 3,323.

There is little opportunity to show the comparative strength of Congressman Chindblom and Col. Smith in Lake county. In the election Nov. 6, a year ago the prosecutor, running for his third term and "unopposed," drew 25,776. At the same time the congressman, opposed by the Democrat Weber, received 24,655 with Weber getting 8,962 while Gov. Al Smith was drawing more than 12,000 votes.

Extends To Chicago

The district extends into the Rogers Park district in Chicago. This end of the district would be the Chindblom stronghold while Lake county, the northern extremity of the district, would be the strongest Smith territory.

Former Fox Lake Resident Dies

Falling to recover from a skull operation performed in an eastern hospital this summer, Frank Carlson, Jr., 40, former resident of Fox Lake, died at his Chicago home Friday.

The deceased, whose father operated the Columbia club at Fox Lake for several years, was estimator for Sears, Roebuck and Co., at the time of his death.

He is survived by a wife, two sisters, and two brothers.

Burial took place at Hillside cemetery, Antioch, Sunday.

CORONOR'S JURY LAUDS DEGROFF FOR BRAVERY

Inquest Into Death of Train Robber Held Here Monday

Death caused by a gunshot fired by Special Agent A. W. DeGross, of the Soo Line, was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury at an inquest held here Monday into the death of Arthur Deuney, 32, of Chicago, who was shot at Lake Villa two weeks ago in connection with the freight train robbery there. Self defense was stated as justification for the act and Special Agent DeGross was commended by the jury for his bravery.

Arthur Reid, believed to be Deuney's injured accomplice, who has been discharged from the Highland Park hospital, was present at the inquest. Although he refused to make any statements concerning the holdup, he told authorities that he was in Lake Villa that night. Following the official inquiry Monday, Reid was taken to the county jail, where he will be held pending further investigation.

After Reid has served a sentence for the Soo Line offense, he will be turned over to authorities at the Michigan State penitentiary at Jackson, where he is wanted for escaping a two year term there.

The ex-convict has told Sheriff Doolittle that he wants to go anywhere but back to Joliet where he was once paroled for "squealing" on his fellow prisoners when they were planning a jailbreak. He fears the prisoners there will kill him if he goes back.

ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW DATES ARE ANNOUNCED

Finest of Feathery Tribe to Be Seen Here on Dec. 19, 20, 21

In competition with all previous exhibits, what promises to be the most extensive and the best that Antioch has had will be the three day showing of prize standard bred poultry from the Central States Metropolitan area, December 19, 20, and 21. Since the fact that this show has outgrown its local characteristics was evidenced last year when the unusually large number of Wisconsin exhibitors came to Antioch, entries from the entire region between Chicago and Milwaukee are expected.

Is Strongly Supported

The show is supported not only by local business men and farmers, but also by business interests from this whole territory. Among those which have contributed are, the Samuel Lull interests, North Shore railroad, Soo Line, National Tea company, Atlantic and Pacific company, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, and Chris Paschen, and some state aid for the boys' and girls' 4-H club exhibits has also been secured. It is expected that this year's demonstration will attract thousands to Antioch during the holiday season. Booth reservations will be arranged by Secretary C. L. Kuttel.

POULTRY MEETING TO BE HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL

The sixth annual meeting of the members of the Poultry association will be held at the local high school Monday, Nov. 25. Motion pictures on the poultry industry will be shown and a business meeting will follow.

GAME VIOLATIONS

FEW THIS WEEK

One Cicero man and three Chicago sportsmen were the only victims of arrest in this city for game violations, since the pheasant season opened Sunday, according to W. H. Regan and Sam Tarbell, justices.

Joe Ewers, accompanied by his sister, Harriet, of Chicago, and Bob Wilson drove to the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Ewers, Danville, over the week-end. They attended the Illinois army game Saturday.

Chester Wagner and Erlene Fry and friend visited at the home of Miss Elsie Dunford, Channel lake, Sunday.

Mrs. Mauda Sabin is spending this week in Chicago.

Sally Ann's

at Her Home

Robert of Lincoln had his say about home building too. He said, "Suppose you try a home like mine?" "Yes, it's just delightful," cried merry Bobolink, "down there among the butternuts and the grasses, and you can perch on a tall grass and sing and sing and sing and sing and sing all day by your little mate's side."

"That is a very good place, Bobolink," said Redwinged Blackbird, "but you can improve upon it. It's all very well to build down among the grasses; only let it be near a brook. Then when you are tired of singing, you can listen to the brook's clear, cool song, and the tall rushes will screen you from the hot sun. Oh! it's so nice and cool and quiet down there among the rushes by that brook."

"I like the meadows best," said Mrs. Meadow-lark, "and if you choose the right field, you'll never be disturbed, I assure you."

But Saw-whet said he liked the trees better than the ground.

"Then try the tip of an elm tree branch," advised Mr. Oriole. "My wife is the best seamstress you ever saw and she'll show you how to weave the neatest nest in the whole land."

"Yes," added Mrs. Oriole, "the top end of a branch is a nice safe place. The boys can't reach it from the ground and they can't climb out to that tip either."

"I can tell you of a better place than that," sang Robin gayly. "Look at my home in the big cherry tree, and when the cherries are ripe, my little robins will be sure to be on hand and eat them—so convenient you see!"

"And our nest is not so hard to make as Mrs. Oriole's," added Robin's mate. "You see it is made of little twigs and lined with dry grass and then plastered on the outside with mud."

"Dear me!" cawed Mr. Crow. "How much trouble over a little nest! Why, fasten together a few sticks, up in the top of a tall tree, near some big corn fields and then you'll be well-corned and then you'll be well-fixed!"

"I'm not so fond of corn as you are, Mr. Crow," answered Little Saw-whet. "See what a dainty little home it is, all covered with lichens and soft down and fastened to this limb, out of sight if rough boys come near."

"But I could never get into such a house as that," Mrs. Hummingbird, replied Saw-whet. "I should tear it all to pieces if I were to try."

"Try the barn," advised the Swallow. "Make a nice lining of hen feathers for your nest and build it away up in the barn."

"That is too near people's houses," said Saw-whet. "I do not like to live so near them. I like the woods the best!"

"Try an apple tree," cried King bird. "Build near us and we'll keep you!"

Street observations are explicitly indicative of the fact that Antioch women have escaped the common-place when it comes to hats, and they do have confidence in the smartness and correctness of the models which they wear.

Many different styles of hats have been seen during the last few days—those that fit the head snugly to give the sophisticated smoothness of chicness, the brim hats that are so different, the tucked back brims, the tam drapes, the "Dutch Bonnets", the helmet shaped dress hats, the swaggers, the lustrous satin velvets, and the "Fore and Aft" models—yes, these have all been recently displayed on Main street.

the other birds from troubling you."

"No," said Mr. Woodpecker. "there's a better place still. I know of an old dead tree in which it will be so easy to bore a hole for a nest."

"But I can't bore as you can, Mr. Woodpecker," Saw-whet reminded him.

"Don't take the trouble to make any nest at all," laughed the Cowbird. "Do as I do. Lay your egg in some other bird's nest and let that bird take all the care for you."

"I don't approve of that way—it's stealing," said Little Mrs. Jenny Wren, reproachfully. "I know some very nice boys who have made such convenient little bird houses especially for us. It was very good of them to do it. Mr. Wren and I intend to live in one of these houses. You should try one, Mr. Saw-whet."

"Then try my sand bank," said Mr. Bank-Swallow. "It's a nice firm sand bank and there is such a large colony of us. We could go to work and dig a nest in a little while."

But Little Saw-whet didn't exactly like any of these suggestions.

"What do you advise, Grandfather," he asked at last as the other birds

HOW TO TAKE LIFE

Take it just as though it were—as it is—an earnest, vital and important affair. Take it as though you were born to the task of performing a merry part in it—as though the world had awaited your coming. Take it as though it were a grand opportunity to do and achieve, to carry forward great and good schemes to help and cheer a suffering, weary, it may be heartbroken, brother. Now and then a man stands aside from the crowd, labors, earnestly, steadfastly, confidently, and straightway becomes famous for wisdom, intellect, skill, greatness of some sort. The world wonders, admires, idolizes; and it only illustrates what others may do if they take hold of life with a purpose. The miracle of the power that elevates the few, is to be found in their industry, application, and perseverance under the promptings of a brave, determined spirit.

—Mark Twain.

When people start buying things that they need, then supply wakes up and runs with demand—Sellers start selling, Makers start making, And earners start earning. Everybody gets busy; Everybody makes money; Money circulates; The business drouth ends. That's the way Prosperity comes To everybody. Don't lock the door on Prosperity; Buy what you need So others can buy What you produce.

Scores Triumph

MR. JOHN BOEDECKER

"For years I suffered from indigestion, kidney and gall bladder troubles," said Mr. John Boedecker, 2451 West 67th Street, Chicago, Illinois. "No matter how light my diet, the food remained like a lump in my stomach. I spit up bits of undigested food; pains assailed me after every meal; I was constipated and had dizzy spells and pains across my back. Every night I had to get up several times. Naturally I lost weight and strength."

"I heard about Konjola and decided to try it. What a surprise was in store for me. In two weeks my digestion was restored, my kidneys were functioning as they should and the constipation was relieved. I haven't a sign of an ache or pain and am eating and sleeping as I have not done in years. I read that Konjola is the medicine with more than a million friends. If everyone knew what I do about Konjola it would have a billion friends."

Konjola is sold in Antioch, Illinois, at S. H. Reeves' drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

For 3 minutes
everything depends on motor oil

ENGINEERS have found that 60% of all engine wear occurs in the first three minutes of running!—A hazard which greatly increases in winter.

To assure safety to vital engine parts at the zero hour of starting, Shell engineers have developed an oil with a low pour point—an oil which flows freely in cold weather.

The constantly increasing thousands who use Shell Motor Oil don't have to run the risk of changing to a lighter-bodied oil in winter. They can and do drive with complete confidence that lubrication starts when the engine starts.

Shell crude comes from hand-picked wells in Shell's vast producing fields. The new Shell-developed, low-temperature refining process prepares the crude for use. And before it reaches you, it passes 259 tests which check and certify the rich, unvarying quality of every quart.

That quality assures every essential of a modern motor oil for year-round service: Low Pour Point, Ideal Body at All Operating Temperatures, Low Carbon Content, and Non-Fouling Carbon.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL—And let the Shell Lubrication Chart be your guide. Courteous salesmen await you at the familiar yellow and red service stations. Convenient everywhere.

To the man who uses his car all winter—we say:
"Try Shell for 30 days"

One cold morning's experience will give you a new conception of how easy winter starting can be. A few days' trial will show you how quickly lubrication can be achieved when the mercury is trying to curl up and disappear.

400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline is made to order for winter use. Starts quick. Burns completely because it's "dry" gasoline. Ought to cost more, but it doesn't.

PRIN. PETTY ADDRESSES ANTIOCH WOMAN'S CLUB

"The Relation of the Woman's Club to the School" was the subject discussed by Prin. W. C. Petty at Local Guest day of the Antioch Woman's club held at the grade school Monday.

His message, which he delivered in a forceful and versatile manner, embraced a wealth of suggestive thoughts on the relationship which exists between the mother, child, and the standard moral code which has been adopted for each. Mr. Petty also read Will Durant's "The Woman of the Future." Following his lecture, he distributed copies of moral codes to the club members.

The hostesses were Misses. Wetzel, Trieger, and Miss Elizabeth Webb.

ANTIOCH W. C. T. U. MEETS WITH MRS. A. J. FELTER

The state W. C. T. U. convention, which was recently held at Danville, Illinois, was the subject discussed by Mrs. Tibbets, Lake County W. C. T. U. president, at a meeting of that organization held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Felter, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Tibbets' address was delivered following devotion, which was led by Rev. Phillip Bohl. Among the officers elected for the coming year, are: Mrs. Rex Bonser, secretary, and Miss Lottie Jones, treasurer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Bartlett, Friday afternoon, December 6. Mrs. Tibbets will again be present. All members are urged to be there.

ANTIOCH WOMAN'S CLUB TO HAVE NEXT MEET NOV. 18

MISS MINAHAN MARRIES HENRY SKOW, WOODSTOCK

At a quiet single ring ceremony at the local Methodist parsonage, Miss Annetta Minahan and Henry P. Skow were married by Rev. Roy Kufak on Saturday afternoon.

But teachers can't do it all. A large percentage of efficiency depends upon co-operation of the parents. How do you measure up, Mr. giving Antioch schools the low you spending all of your money on the important. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Minahan, of Fox Lake, and the groom, who is a salesman, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Skow, of Woodstock. The couple will make their home in Racine, Wis., where Mr. Skow is employed.

MISS PEDERSEN ENTERTAINS ON BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 10.

The Golden Text was, "Know ye that the Lord is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture." (Psalms 100:3.)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have sought out many inventions" (Ecclesiastes 7:29).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The real man cannot depart from holiness, nor can God, by whom man is evolved, engender the capacity or freedom to sin. A mortal sinner is not God's man" (p. 475).

CHANNEL LAKE CLUB MEMBERS PREPARE FOR TRIP TO AUSTRALIA

Club Dinner—Dance Promises to Be Enjoyable Success

It is learned with regret that Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Kresse and their daughter, Mildred, are leaving Chicago this week, and expect to make their home in Australia during the next three years. As a family, the Kresses have been very active in all the affairs of the Country club, and they will be very sadly missed by their many friends. We wish them God speed, and a safe return.

The plans for the dinner-dance on the fifteenth are progressing nicely and a large attendance is looked for. President Guedinger is sparing no pains to make this party a huge success, and he hopes each one will cooperate in every way to make it a memorable occasion.

NEW CROPS IN FLOODED STATES BRING PROSPERITY

The introduction of new habits of planting, following the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, has wrought added prosperity to farmers in many of the Mississippi Delta counties, according to Red Cross officials.

Almost every cabin has a fine vegetable garden, whereas cotton formerly grew right to the doorstep, the Red Cross states. The home demonstration and agricultural agents have followed up the project inaugurated by the Red Cross, immediately after the flood of 1927, with very gratifying success. There is a large acreage in corn, whereas formerly cotton was the one crop. Alfalfa has gained a firm foothold, and the growing of this crop is bringing good financial returns from the three or four cuttings each year. Live stock also is showing improvement due to these new crops.

Everything considered, the Delta sections which escaped a backwater problem in the Spring of 1929 are in a prosperous condition, as a result of the follow-up and rehabilitation by the American Red Cross.

PRINTING RESULTS

The one big thing we are interested in when you come here to buy printing is not primarily how big the order, but—how can we do the job to insure you maximum satisfaction. We know that if you get results you will be back for more printing of the same kind.

TYPOGRAPHY

means, in this shop, just exactly what the dictionary says. . .

"THE ART OF PRINTING"

The same care, the same thought, the same exactness of balance, harmony of color and choice of mediums is used by us on a piece of printed matter that the artist uses when he is painting a picture.

The completed work is a real piece of art, pleasing to the eye, easy to read and hence...GETS RESULTS.

CHICAGO STOCK SHOW PLANS FULL PROGRAM

The essential wonders of the rural world and that vast empire of valley and plains of which Chicago is the commercial capital will be vividly on view at the Chicago Stock Yards this last of this month.

Opening on November 30, the first Saturday following Thanksgiving, and continuing throughout the next week until December 7, the International Live Stock Exposition will be a Mecca to thousands from both country and town.

Judging Contests First
According to an advance program issued by the management, a pre-exposition event will be the farm boys' and girls' live stock judging contests on Friday, November 29, the day before the formal opening of the show. More selected teams of farm youths from every state will pit their knowledge of livestock in spirited competition.

Saturday, November 30, youth will still be in the spotlight, with the state collegiate live stock judging teams, and the Junior Live Stock Feeding Contest, from which ranks last year's grand-champion steer came, occupying the main program. On this day and throughout the following, scoring of the hundreds of samples of the finest harvests of the world, entered in the International Grain and Hay Show will keep a large staff of crops experts busy.

Monday, December 2, will see the exposition in full stride. The judging rings will be crowded with nominations for the highest honors of the 1929 live stock show season, including Percheron and Shire horses and entries in the fat classes of all breeds. The awarding of championships in the fat classes, always a tense and dramatic occasion, will be on Tuesday, and at the same time judging of the Shorthorn, Hereford, and Aberdeen-Angus cattle classes will begin, and will be continued, along with the other breeds of stock, throughout the week.

Auction Sales Spectacular
For other details of the judging schedule, anyone particularly interested in the time set for one or more breeds of stock, can obtain it by addressing his inquiry to the exposition, says Manager B. H. Heide.

Auction sales of breeding cattle and fat stock will take place throughout the week. They always attract large audiences of interested onlookers in addition to buyers. Thursday and Friday will be the big fat stock sale days, with the grand-champion steer scheduled to go under the gavel at 9 a. m. Thursday, December 5. Last year's champion, owned by a boy, brought $7 a pound and weighed 1150 pounds. Sales of choice breeding cattle are slated for Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of "International Week".

CALLS ON RED CROSS INCREASE; RESPONSE TO ROLL CALL URGED

Society's Activities Reach Millions
Each Year—Chairman Payne
Asks Generous Support in Membership.

Disaster relief work, service to disabled veterans and their families, public health work and its many other activities caused expenditures of $11,064,000 by the American Red Cross for the year ended June 30, 1929, according to the annual report of the organization.

This work by the Red Cross is supported by the annual Roll Call for members, which is held from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28.

Directing attention to the heavy expenditures by the Red Cross during the past year, and to the fact that the organization was called upon for assistance in 120 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions, Judge John Barton Payne, the chairman, said:

"The Red Cross is a volunteer society, supported by its membership and belongs to all of the citizens. While it is a semi-governmental agency in that the President of the United States is its president, and one third of its governing board are representatives of Government departments, yet it receives no financial support from the Government.

"Funds for our work for war veterans and their families, for carrying on disaster relief, for our varied health activities, the life saving and first aid work and our many other activities, all are derived from the membership fee. The public is asked only once each year—at the Annual Roll Call—to join in this support of the Red Cross."

The Red Cross expended an average of $930,000 per year in the past seven years, in disaster relief work from its own treasury, statements show. The work for world war veterans also has caused heavy expenditures.

Magnetic Milker Driving "Hired Man" Off the Farm

Application of Machinery to Agriculture Working Many Changes in Farm Life.

JOSEPH HENRY

ons is this milker, which brings the electro-magnetic force into the dairy barn for the first time. "The same magnetic force that is being harnessed today for many uses, ranging from the marvellously new pipe organs in which hundreds of electro magnets instantly transmit each finger touch on the keyboard, to a note control in a distant pipe, to the gigantic magnetic cranes for picking up and releasing hundreds of tons of steel, is here used to provide the simplest and most effective pulsation control ever devised, to make uniform milking the first essential if cows are to produce to the fullest extent of their possibilities.

Here is what transpires when the new magnetic milker

Joseph Henry was the discoverer of the electric magnet; the principle of which is used in the magnetic milker to secure uniform milking of cows.

The above illustration shows the magnetic milker at work. Cow's udder is shown with test-cups in place and hose carrying milk to pail of magnetic milker.

New World Was Rather Cold to Them

Frantisek and Anna Mrza, aged eight and ten, arrived bag and baggage in the New world of which they had dreamed for weeks, only to find that their father was not at the dock in New York to meet them as arranged. When their father died several years ago back in Czechoslovakia, little Frantisek and Anna went to live with their grandparents in a village near Prague. Their father, John Mrza, came to America to make a new home for them, and settled in Endicott, N. Y., where he married again. The children were cared for by the Travelers' Aid society.

RED CROSS HONOR FLAG GOES TO NEW HAMPSHIRE

The honor flag, given annually to the State which enrolls the greatest percentage of its population as members of the American Red Cross, went this year to New Hampshire. The decision was so close between New Hampshire and Vermont that it hung in the balance for a time. California ranked third in the honor list and Connecticut fourth.

A final tabulation of figures of the 1928 Roll Call showed a nation-wide membership of 4,127,946. The banner rests with New Hampshire, where it is hung in the State House, until the 1929 Roll Call—held between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day—is completed and new figures available for the 1929 winner.

Obituary

Mrs. Chrysteen Harrison
Final tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Chrysteen Harrison, pioneer resident of Antioch, who died a week ago at her home on Lake street, when a large number of relatives and friends crowded the home Monday.

Mrs. Harrison was born in Lincoln, Courtland County, New York, on March 2, 1843. When about nine years of age, she came with her parents to Lebanon, Illinois, where she grew to womanhood. On January 10, 1860, she was married to Charles B. Harrison, and to this union were born three children, two sons and one daughter; they are: Mrs. Maud Story, of Stager, Michigan; Charles Harrison, of Wankegan; and Andrew Harrison, of Antioch, all of whom are left to mourn the departure of their mother. Her husband preceded her in death on May 3, 1916. In 1868 Mrs. Harrison, with her husband, came to the vicinity of Antioch, where she has lived ever since. She was a devoted wife and a loving mother and will be greatly missed by her sons and daughter, grandchildren, and great grandchildren. The beautiful flowers were testimony of the esteem in which she was held by her neighbors and friends.

Funeral services were held at her home on Monday afternoon, with Rev. Philip T. Bohl, pastor of the Methodist church, in charge. She was laid to rest in the Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Walter Atwell
Isabel Sophronia Atwell was born October 18, 1863, at Kannibal, Missouri, where she lived until 1860, at which time the family moved to Quincy, Ill. In 1901, she came to Lake county, where on August 21 of that year she was married to Walter Atwell of Lake Villa, where they made their home.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss five step-children: Fred, Henry, and Arthur of Lake Villa; William, of Mandelgryn; and Mrs. Charles Wilson, of Zenda, Wisconsin; seven grandchildren; and a nephew, Albert Jackson, of Minneapolis, Minn.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Glands of the Skin

Two kinds of glands are in the skin, those that give out the perspiration and those that give off oil. There are approximately two million sweat glands all over the body, but they are most numerous on the forehead, hands, and soles of the feet. The oil glands open mostly into hair follicles, keeping the hair glossy and preventing the skin from becoming too dry. (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

COLOR PRINTING

WHEN our experience suggests the use of colored paper, colored ink or a combination of the two for the job you submit, as an aid toward increasing possible returns, we tell you so. If white paper and black ink are best, we suggest them.

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter reads.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us prove it.

A Good Bank Balance Is Ever a Reason for Being Thankful

Especially is this true if you have it in this strong bank. We pay you 3% on the balance which, if you desire, will be added to the total of your deposits and will draw interest at the same rate. Start saving this Thanksgiving and have a substantial balance to your credit by next Thanksgiving.

WILMOT CHURCH MISSION IS A BIG SUCCESS

Vincent Feltis Is Surprised
On Birthday Anniversary
At Ehler Home

A well-attended Mission conducted by Rev. August Gearhart, of Milwaukee, was brought to a successful conclusion Sunday evening at the Holy Name church with the following visiting clergymen attending the Solemn close: Rev. George Radant, Milwaukee; Rev. Bernard Felsicker, St. Francis; Rev. P. Enrietta, Milwaukee; Rev. Edward Connelly, of Racine; Rev. Joseph Shields, Mary Knoll, New York; Rev. Ambrose Weldekemp, Spring Grove; and Rev. C. Nix, McHenry. Rev. Joseph Brasky is pastor of the Holy Name church. The mission started last Wednesday evening with lectures and benediction each night and two masses, and instruction in the morning. Rev. Gearhart is a priest of wide experience having served as Chaplain in the World War, as a prison Chaplain since, and is now conducting the Fenwick home for boys in Milwaukee. His talks were concise, clear and appealing and his suggestions easily grasped by the laymen. Large and appreciative crowds greeted the Missionary Father at all the services.

Seventy-five friends and relatives surprised Vincent Feltis on the occasion of his birthday Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ehler. The evening was spent at cards with awards going to Mrs. Herman Frank and Otto Hanke and consolation to Herman Frank and Mrs. Nick Nett. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Esther Kauls was in Milwaukee for the State Teachers' convention last week, returning to Sharon Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Boulden celebrated her 75th birthday anniversary Sunday with a family reunion. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boulden and Lorraine, Chicago, were there for the day; Mr. and Mrs. Boulden, Appleton, and Mrs. Larson, Neenah, on Thursday and again on Sunday; Mr. and Mrs. John Heath and son, Andrew, LaCrosse, arrived Wednesday and left on Saturday. Mr. Heath attended the State Teachers' convention at Milwaukee, Thursday and Friday and Mrs. Fred Boulden and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boulden of Burlington, came on Sunday.

SEVENTEEN AND SEVENTY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Frank and one of his father's friends were born upon the same day of the same month. Frank is seventeen and Mr. Barton is seventy. There is a considerable difference in their ages and in their points of view.

"How I wish I could live my life over again," we hear people say. "What a thrill it would give me if I could once more be young."

There are great advantages in being young. It is true, but Barton does not envy Frank these prospects and opportunities. He has lived through youth and young manhood and middle age, and now at seventy he is quite contented.

Frank is in high school, and he does not know exactly what he wants to do, or even if he did know, if he would be able to accomplish his desires. His mother thinks he should study medicine, his father would like to have him take up engineering, and if Frank himself has any desires, it is to study international law and foreign language and go to the Orient and be an attache to some foreign diplomat.

He has all sorts of desires and emotions and has not yet learned to control or direct them. He is just now seriously in love, and instead of spending his time in study and work, he wastes it in a welter of worry and uncertainty as to when he can marry and whether or not the girl will wait for him until he finishes his education, and he can get a job sufficiently remunerative to support the two—or more of them. He is restless and often discontented, and uncertain as to what the future holds for him. Youth is not always happy even if it is freed from heavy present responsibilities, and a great uncertain future spreads out before Frank.

With Barton it is quite different. He has been happily married for more than forty years. All the emotional longings of youth have been satisfied or inhibited. He has no future to worry about. The work and the duties and the pleasures of today are all that concern him. He isn't thinking about the sort of job he will get; he has no concern as to whether or not his sweetheart will wait for him or be true to him, for she sits across the table from him three times a day and he knows she will be faithful to him as long as life shall last. He has worked intelligently enough and has practiced economy and exercised judgment and forethought so that his temporal wants will be adequately provided for as long as he may live. Nor does he have any forebodings as to what will happen after life for him has ended as he knows is inevitable before many years. He has faith enough not to be afraid.

Maybe he is wrong, but if given his choice Barton would prefer to be seventy rather than seventeen. The bustle and worry and uncertainty of life is all behind him and for him the best is yet to come.

same is promised.

The Girls' Dramatic and Athletic club association is preparing a three-act play to be given Friday, Dec. 13.

The meeting of the 4-H club which was held last Tuesday evening was well attended. The members plan on getting together once a month during the winter months.

Antioch Football Team Is Defeated By Libertyville

Members of Freshman Class Sponsor Program For Parents

Although they did not succeed in making the highest score, the members of the Antioch Football team feel that they were not defeated in the game played at Libertyville Monday, the result of which was a 13-6 score in favor of Libertyville.

Outside of the first few seconds of play, in which Trambille made a touchdown from the kickoff, Antioch was master of the entire game. The local fellows were fooled in the opening seconds by a backward pass, but as soon as they received the ball on the second kickoff, they marched down the field in a series of line plunges, following which they went over for a touchdown.

This march for a touchdown was pretty much of a surprise to everybody, including the Libertyville players, who had won all of their conference games by rather lop-sided scores and because of two previous losses on the part of Antioch, the game was considered a set up for Libertyville.

Coach Reed's team continued throughout the game to hold the edge on the line play. Libertyville, however, was unable to complete a few passes for long gains, which finally ended in another touchdown for them. Reed was well satisfied with the type of game which his boys exhibited and when considering the inexperience of his players at the beginning of the year, the local coach must have given a lot of credit for teaching them the high type of football that they have shown throughout the season. In all of the games played thus far the Antioch squad was outwheeled and was put up against much more experienced players.

The finale of the football season will take place Saturday when the Antioch team goes to Winnetka to play the exceptionally strong North Shore team at the New Trier High school, which should have an easy time playing Antioch, possibly being able to use a large number of second string men in preparation for its next season's games. Reed and his men do not always react on the field according to paper calculations, however. The New Trier officials invited Antioch for this game, because of the reputation that it gained last year in the basketball tournament.

The members of the high school faculty are attending the High School conference being held at the University of Illinois today and tomorrow. One of the features of the Friday evening meet is the All-state orchestra, comprised of selected members from orchestras of various schools of the state. Antioch has the honor of having a representative, John Tetlasha, in this organization.

The freshmen are sponsoring a program for their parents and friends to be given at the high school Friday night. Admission is free and the class members are assisted by Miss Smith, Miss Schroeder, Miss Rice, Mr. Peterson, and Mr. Reed.

"Captain Applejack" is the name of the play which the seniors have selected for their class dramatic composition, which will be presented on December 9. The cast will be announced later.

The stage curtain recently purchased by the seniors has been put up.

THANKSGIVING
Look at that turkey as he struts around!

He all but thinks he owns that ground.
And Oh! he is so big and so very fat.
But Thanksgiving will soon end that.

At the Thanksgiving table of all the things there are to eat,
Grandma's pumpkin pie has them all beat;
Some bakers sure know how to bake,
But Grandma would take the cake.
Mother says that I'm a pig,
But she needn't worry, I'm growing big.

With cake and things that are so sweet,
How can a fellow help but eat?

HOWARD AND WIETH
HEADLINE BOXING
CARD AT PALACE

Garlow and Storey to Meet in Semi-Windup Friday Night

Boxing fans are looking forward with much gusto to the meeting between Johnny Howard, Chicago's 160 pound sensation, and Frank Wieth, German champ, who are billed to headline Promoter Dick Macek's all-star card of seven bouts at the Antioch Palace Friday night. The German has been giving fans their money's worth with every appearance in the local ring and they are anxious to see him mix with Howard, reckoned as some scrappier in these parts.

Supporting the feature windup, Angelaw Garlow, Kenosha, is matched with Heywood Storey, Chicago, in the semi-windup. The extra good preliminaries include Howard Craft vs. Charley Murray; John Hughes vs. Harold Brown; Paul Liberty vs. John Taylor; Ernie Kratochvil vs. Jimmy Kane; and Dick Thibodeau, Grayslake, vs. Frank Terry, Chicago; the last two are new to the palace arena. They will meet in the first preliminary.

Palace to Close Nov. 22
Jolted by Promoter Macek's announcement this week that the Palace will be closed for amateur boxing after Friday, Nov. 22, for the remainder of this year, boxing fans are expected to scramble for seats for the last two shows. An extra good card is being arranged for seats for the last night, November 22, and the management expects to present one of the feature cards of the year on that night. The Palace will reopen January 1, Mr. Macek stated today.

Last Week's Fight Results
Windup
Karl Ogren, Kenosha, beat Johnny Taylor, Waukegan, in four rounds.

Semi-Windup
Frank Wieth, Germany, beat Gus Brandt, Chicago, in three rounds.

Preliminaries
1—Bob Canbess, Racine, outslugged Charley Peterson, Racine, in four rounds.

2—Vic Tallmany, Chicago, lost to Fred Lacabee, Chicago, in four rounds.

3—Eddie Garlow, Kenosha, defeated Paul Liberty, St. Paul, Minn., in three rounds.

4—Ernie Kratochvil, Racine, won the decision over Jimmy Kane, Kenosha.

5—Rudy Peterson, Evanston, gained the decision over Joe Stowe, Kenosha, in three rounds.

Running true to form, the Antioch Netters repeated their victory of last week over the Waukegan Trojans 25-18. They disclosed to a good-sized crowd a fine defense and a smooth working offense, with Wilson and Steininger feeding Nixon, who wound up with 17 points. Hughes and Simpson played a wonderful defensive game. Christy played nice ball for the losers, but was over-shadowed by Turner, who held Wilson, high scoring forward, without a point.

Antioch started fast and ran up a 13-1 lead which was sufficient to last. Then the Netters rushed in subs and held the lead. Near the end, Waukegan hit for long baskets, but couldn't overcome the big lead. Nixon made two baskets each quarter and Hollenbeck made three the last quarter.

The lineup is as follows:

Nixon	8	1	12
Wilson	0	0	0
Steininger	1	2	4
Simpson	1	0	2
Hughes	0	0	0
Ewers	0	0	0
Nelson	1	0	2
	11	5	25
Hollenbeck	4	2	10
Morb	2	0	4
Carlson	0	0	0
Christy	1	2	4
Turner	0	0	0
	7	4	18

Next Monday the Netters play Crystal Lake.

BAWLED OUT!
ONE day last WEEK we heard a certain CITIZEN of this COMMUNITY whom you all KNOW, calling down ANOTHER man whom you all KNOW for DRIVING too FAST past the Antioch GRADE school, and we WONDER how many of the REST of us OUGHT to be CALLED DOWN for the same OFFENSE. When we stop to REALIZE that there are about TWO HUNDRED children ATTENDING our PUBLIC SCHOOLS and that THEY are not as good JUDGES of the SPEED of a car as we GROWNUPS, then it BECOMES our DUTY not to SAIL by without THINKING but to drive SLOWLY and be READY for any EMERGENCY.

Moral: Speaking of "sailing" we have something interesting for you this week in a Majestic at $147.50 complete.

Service to World War veterans in hospital, for able-bodied veterans, and for dependent families of both called for expenditures of $735,000 by the American Red Cross during the year just ended. In addition, Red Cross chapters spent $1,963,000 in veteran relief, and also for men still in service.

Although eleven years have passed since the Armistice, there remain 25,500 disabled and sick veterans of the World War in hospitals, and the peak of the number who will require hospitalization is not expected by Veterans Bureau authorities to be reached until 1947. For these men, the Red Cross must continue its service of providing recreation and comforts, according to James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross.

"Under its Charter from Congress, the Red Cross is required to maintain service for veterans of wars and for the men still in the service," Mr. Fieser said. "The funds for this work come from the annual roll call membership fees. In addition to the sum spent in maintaining contact with the veterans, the Red Cross expended $208,000 in its service to the men still in the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The society and a majority of its 3,500 chapters handle claims for these men for insurance, compensation and other benefits they are entitled to under the law, and also where necessary arrange to provide for dependents of the men.

"Red Cross workers are maintained in forty-eight Veterans Bureau Hospitals, as well as in all regular Army and Navy hospitals, whose duty it is to supervise recreational facilities for the patients, and to provide small comforts. Is the Army and Navy Hospitals, the workers also do social service for the patients. These tasks also are performed at all Army Posts and Navy Ports by Red Cross workers, and in addition Red Cross representatives to handle claims are established at the majority of Veterans Bureau regional offices."

The Community Yardstick

Is it a good place in which to bring up a child? That is the acid test applied to any town.

How can we find the answer? By using the community yardstick—which provides a three-way test of the factors that have a direct bearing upon child life in the community. It will take but a few minutes to measure our community with this yardstick and ascertain whether or not this is a good place to bring up children. Here are the acid tests.

1. Do We Give Our Babies a Fair Chance to Live?

GOOD In order to attain the rating "Good" the infant death rate of a community should not exceed five deaths, during the first year, out of each one hundred babies born alive.

FAIR Any community in which the infant mortality exceeds seven and one-half deaths during the first year, out of each one hundred babies born alive, would be rated as "Fair."

POOR This low rating is applied only to communities where the conditions have reached the disgraceful state where there are ten or more deaths of babies, during the first year, out of each one hundred born alive.

The infant of today is the citizen of tomorrow—it is deserving of a fair chance. The safeguard of infant life is the least a community can guarantee. Baby deaths are largely preventable.

2. Do Our Children Receive an Education to Fit Them for Life?

GOOD This rating is secured by communities who have safeguarded their future citizenship by seeing that at least seventy-five out of every one hundred children of school age are attending schools.

FAIR Whenever only sixty children out of every one hundred children are attending schools the community is given a rating of "Fair."

POOR This rating is applied to communities where the citizenship has failed in its responsibility to the children to such an extent that less than one-half of the children of school age are attending schools.

What greater handicap can be placed upon a child in its preparation for life, than the lack of an education? Every American boy and girl deserves the chance to go to school.

3. Do Our Incomes Provide the Proper Standard of Living?

GOOD The rating "Good" may be applied to a community where 90% of the families are enjoying an annual income of more than $2,000 per year.

FAIR A community where 90% of the families receive an income annually of from $1,800 to $2,000 is entitled to a rating of "Fair."

POOR This rating is given to communities where a low standard of living is found; where the income of 90% of the families is $1,500 or less.

Every community should seek to provide sufficient incomes for at least ninety per cent of its families so that they may secure the comforts for their children that lead to a healthy and happy childhood and youth.

Folks, these "acid tests" put the problem squarely up to us. Your ideas will be of interest to others. Let's talk it over. No matter how good our standing, it may be bettered, but only through the co-operation of all in

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS
WHAT A LAXATIVE
SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy, warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it, in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drugstore.

True gladness does not always speak; joy, bred and born but in the tongue, is weak.—Richter.

SYNOPSIS

In New York, Hugh Chesby, English World War veteran, relates a story of a treasure in Constantinople in the existence of which his uncle, Lord Chesby, firmly believes. A cablegram notifies Hugh of his uncle's sailing for New York. At the dock, Hugh and his chum, Jack Nash, learn from Watkins, Lord Chesby's valet, that the old gentleman has left with a stranger, purporting to be a friend of Hugh's. A mysterious telephone message notifies Hugh that his uncle is in a hospital, dying, victim of an assassin. Before his death he babbles of the treasure, and tells them he was stabbed by "Ted." With Lord Chesby's body, Hugh and Jack sail for England. In London Hugh and Jack meet their war buddy, Nikka Zarenko, famous Russian violinist, and pore over some old documents concerning the treasure and its location. A hidden room, referred to as the "Prior's Vault," is frequently mentioned. Monty Illier, man of shady reputation, but owner of a neighboring estate, calls on Hugh with a party of friends, mostly foreigners. One of them, introduced as "Signor Teodoroschi," an Italian, makes a distinctly unfavorable impression on Jack.

"That is a gorgeous fireplace," said the countess.

"Ah, yes," he agreed, with his absurdly broad pronunciation. "Rather a quaint verse there, too, I see. How does it run?"

He picked it out slowly, with some help from the Russian girl.

When I have ye Vaplet Churchmanne
Woude sike Hys Soul's contrite
Hee lookened up ye Myssinghe Stene
And tradde ye Prior's Vent.

"Deuced odd! What does it all mean?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," I said. "Nor has anybody else."

Our conversation had attracted the attention of the others, and Mrs. Illier drew Nikka and the count in front of the chimney-piece.

"You don't suppose there could be some secret meaning to those words, do you?" she asked.

"I wish you'd pick it out for me," I countered.

"That was a query I had often put to myself."

"A key to something else, you know," she went on. "Our ancestors were fond of that sort of thing. They loved mystery, and life wasn't as safe in those days as it is in ours."

"It's perfectly thrilling," cried the countess. "This is just the kind of room to house some wonderful secret—or perhaps a tragedy."

I felt something behind me, and turned my head. The Italian had left the table to the center of the room and moved up to the fringe of our group. His green eyes, flashing with an uncanny vital force, were intent upon the rhyme on the overmantel.

"Bumph," I thought to myself, "you may not be able to speak English, but you appear to be able to read it."

He growled something in an undertone to Mrs. Illier and she nodded.

"Fascinating as your room is, I am afraid we must leave you, Lord Chesby," she called over to Hugh.

"Signor Teodoroschi had just reminded me we have to put him on the London train before we drive home."

"I'll have your motors called up," returned Hugh impassively, as he and Illier joined the rest of us.

The rang and gave the necessary orders to Watkins.

"Don't forget that tip on Krugersdorp for the St. Leger," I heard Illier insist to Hugh. "I'm not so sure about the derby. You aren't thinking on any hunters, are you? I've—"

"By the way," Hugh interrupted. "I meant to ask you: did any of your people see strangers around here the morning of my uncle's funeral?"

I was amazed at the sudden silence that gripped the room. The Italian, Teodoroschi, already in the doorway after a curl nod of farewell, stopped dead and stared hard at Hugh.

"You see," Hugh continued, "I heard one of your cars was seen on the London road in back of the park; and I'm anxious to know whether any strangers were seen that morning, especially strangers on foot."

"Not that we've heard of," responded Mrs. Illier, promptly. "All of us were at the funeral. And if the servants had noticed anything queer, I'm sure they would have reported it to me."

"Thanks," said Hugh. "Would it be too much trouble for you to inquire of them, just the same?"

"Not at all. I'd own mind telling us what happened?"

"The whole company crowded closer."

"Oh, nothing much," answered Hugh deliberately. "Except we had reason to suppose the house had been entered."

"Great Scott!" protested Illier. "That's a gol! We've never had anything like that before in the country."

"Did you lose anything, Lord Chesby?" inquired Nikka.

"I think not."

The Countess Sandra Vassilierna permitted an artistic shudder to undulate her figure.

"Bozhe moi, Mladet!" she cried. "Do you bring us into your rural England to risk death from burglars? I prefer the Bolsheviks."

Several people laughed.

"All the same, it's no joke," answered Mrs. Illier. "Thanks for the warning, Lord Chesby. We'll let the dogs loose around the home after this at night."

Teodoroschi, still standing in the doorway, rasped a single sentence, and passed out. The others looked after him like hounds over whom the huntsman cracks his whip. Mrs. Illier and the countess waved a last good-by, and Watkins closed the door after them.

Nikka and I looked at one another, and burst out laughing. Hugh, with a muffled curse, threw up the nearest window.

"Let's have some fresh air," he said. "That scoundrel Monty Illier makes me feel dirty."

"They were a queer crowd," I admitted. "That countess wasn't bad out at me. "Some secret meaning. . . . A key to something else, you know." Mrs. Illier's phrases re-echoed in my brain. I studied the rhyme a second time.

"Hugh," I said suddenly. "If you happen to have with you the copy of that other verse of Lady Jane's?"

He produced it from his pocketbook, without speaking. I spread the copy before me.

Put it down ye Anelout riddet
In Decent, Seemle ardur.
Rouse, O ye myttle Sybil,
Vex Hymanne who doth Endeavour,
Nor treas Hys Effortie tendour.

And in the twinkling of an eyelid the cipher leaped out before me. I did not reason it out. It just came to me—when I saw the YE in the next to the last line, I think.

"I've got it," I shouted, and I sprang up and danced across the hearth, waving the paper in my hand. "I've got it! The key! The cipher! The treasure—"

—but even as I started to say that, I thought better of it.

"No, that's going too far," I panted, breaking off in my mad dance. "I've got something, but how much it means is another matter."

Hugh pulled me down beside them. "Think sense, Jack," he ordered. "Show us your—"

"Here!" I shoved the copy of Lady Jane's doggerel in front of him and Nikka. "Now watch!"

I took a pencil and drew it through all except the first letters of the first and last words in each line. So:

Pette down ye Anelout riddet
In Decent, Seemle ardur.
Rouse, O ye myttle Sybil,
Vex Hymanne who doth Endeavour,
Nor treas Hys Effortie tendour.

The result, of course, was:

"Prior's Vault!" gasped Nikka. "He has found something!"

And his eyes, too, caught the verse carved on the overmantel.

"Up there, too! It can mean only one thing."

"That the secret to the location of the treasure is in the Prior's vault," amended Nikka.

Hugh, who had been in a brown study, aroused himself, and peered at the mass of the fireplace.

"I'm not trying to belittle Jack's discovery," he said slowly, "but you chaps must remember that we don't know where, or what the Prior's vault is."

"Except that this may take it for certain it is in this room," replied Nikka.

"And that perhaps the fireplace has something to do with it," I suggested.

Hugh shook his head.

"No, no, Jack, that won't wash. You, yourself, have measured that chimney area, and we all agreed there wasn't space inside it for a secret chamber. If I thought there was, I'd tear it down."

"Hold on," counseled Nikka. "Easy does it. For the first time we've got something to go upon. Let's chew it over for a while, and see what we can make out of it."

We chewed it over until bedtime without reaching any decision.

CHAPTER IV

The Prior's Vent

It was a long time before I went to sleep. Lady Jane's cipher and its inconclusive information kept buzzing through my head. But at last I dozed off and dreamed of fat monks who popped out of a round hole in a courtyard in endless succession until one of their number, stouter than the rest, became wedged in the opening. He babbled profusely in Latin, and I

Small Boy Definitely Eliminated From Game

Several little girls were "playing house" on a side porch when Albert, three years old, emerged from his home on the opposite side of the street in search of excitement. He was at once greeted with enthusiastic shouts.

"Come on over, Albert! We're having a lot of fun."

After looking up and down the street for approaching motor cars, he stalked slowly across, but his face bore a look of evident disgust when he perceived the nature of the entertainment offered him. A small table had been set with doll dishes and he was told he was to be somebody's

"little boy" in the domestic scene about to be enacted.

For a time he stood about, silent and making no effort to join in the proceedings. Then he deliberately walked to the little table and gave it a vicious shove, upsetting it and scattering the little dishes all over the porch. In the horrified silence that followed this crime, he announced solemnly:

"I'm a bad boy and I've gotta go home."—Kansas City Star.

Reserved Opinion

The noncommittalness of the civil servant is proverbial but this gem recorded by Lord Asquith takes the cake:

"It used to be said of one of the most distinguished civil servants, Sir Alfred Lyall, who was a poet to boot, that even on such a topic as the weather he would not go farther than:

"I'm inclined to guess that there is a touch of east in the wind; but of course you couldn't give me away."

Airplane's Action

It is possible for an airplane to remain in a stationary position in the air in relation to the ground, but it is not possible for a plane to remain stationary in relation to the air—that is, if an airplane is flying at a rate of 100 miles an hour against a head wind of 100 miles an hour, the speed of the plane would be zero.

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidly completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or field breath signals need of a sweetener. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

America's answer to humanity's challenge

Are kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage? These are often signs of sluggish kidneys and should not be neglected.

To promote normal kidney action and assist your kidneys in cleansing your blood of poisonous wastes, use Doan's Pills. Endorsed the world over. Sold by good dealers everywhere.

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

Mrs. L. Dietz, 2015 S Street, Sacramento, Calif., says: "I surely feel grateful to Doan's Pills. Dizzy spells bothered me and I felt tired and nervous. At times I had such a lameness across the back that it was very hard to get around. My kidneys were not acting normally. I started to use Doan's Pills and I am glad I did. Now I enjoy good health."

dish. But this rice, good as it is in itself, and later because of its borrowed savor, is as yet only the foundation of the dish, the "table" as the Dutch have it. On it are placed little heaps of choice tid-bits limited in variety only by the genius and imagination of the chef and his master's pocket book.

Pensling is something of an institution among well-to-do Koreans. Once or twice a year the wealthy rice landholders go to Seoul, the capital, and invite small armies of friends and acquaintances to dine with them that their prestige may be heightened in the eyes of their world. Half a dozen or more meals may be served at such a feast—beef, mutton, venison, fowls, fish and oysters. Rice, of course, is tightly so that it will be manageable and retain its heat. It then becomes a breadstick whose spiraled end will melt a bit of butter and furnish a really delectable bite.

Corn contributes to another important Mexican dish, the tamale. The raw corn paste is flattened out as though tortillas were to be made. On the paste is spread a thin layer of minced meat and pepper pods. The two layers are then folded up so that the meat and pepper forms an inner core with a sort of capsule of corn paste about it. Each piece is then wrapped in a corn shuck made pliable by soaking in water. Numbers of these are placed in a tin vessel and cooked by steam, then served piping hot both with fire and pepper.

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it when- ever coated tongue or field breath signals need of a sweetener. Physi- cians will tell you that every spoon- ful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neu- tralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

If Baby has COLIC

A cry in the night may be the first warning that baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use. And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

Dining Around the World

©The National Geographic Society
A Feast in Ethiopia.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)
The epicure who is willing to blaze startlingly new trails now and then, can have a wonderful time on a gastronomic trip around the world.

Dining in the homes of England and Western Europe, the American attending a feast would find the chief dish a reminder of home. Turkey, duck or goose makes the most popular roast in England, while plum pudding—this time with a generously flavored brandy sauce—usually tops off the meal during cool seasons.

In France and Spain our American explorer of the world's tables would again encounter the turkey but there he would find the capon and the pheasant sharing its popularity. Methods of preparation and side dishes, however, would tell him unmistakably that he was getting farther afield. Truffles, chestnuts and olives are important ingredients of the dressing of fowls in these Latin countries. In France snails might be numbered among the viands that supplement the piece de resistance; and in Spain the meal, starting, say, with almond soup, would be sure to include among the secondary dishes a soup, rice cooked in olive oil, with tomatoes and other vegetables and perhaps bits of meat.

In northern Africa, whatever the date of the feast, it would be sure to have as its central dish cous-cous. This consists of wheat prepared like fine grains of rice, steamed with lamb or mutton, and vegetables if the latter are obtainable. It is served in a large, almost hemispherical, basket-dish so closely woven that it holds water. About this container the diners sit, taking their food with their fingers. Olives, dates, and figs help to complete the meal; and on occasion there may be a dish of locusts—"grasshoppers"—prepared with wheat. The legs, wings and heads are removed before the creatures are cooked.

Among the Zulus of southern Africa whole oxen or bullocks are roasted at feast time; and in central Africa the feast of feasts is roasted elephant's foot.

In Persia, as throughout all the Near and Central East, mutton holds first place. There the accepted epicurean trick is to cook the meat in pomegranate juice. Rice is cooked in grease, and the two combined form the famous pilau. With the pilau is served the thin, crisp, paperlike bread of Persia.

Raw Meat in Tibet

If one's culinary investigations extend to backward Tibet he finds a strange combination of a barbarism which shows itself in the eating of raw meat—the "higher" and "gambler" the better—and an ingenuity that has evolved concentrated emergency rations. A Tibetan feast might consist of yak meat, strong tea mixed with rancid butter, and parched barley meal moistened with the greasy tea. Evaporated and dried yak's milk soaked in tea would constitute the Tibetan "dessert course."

In India no important repast would be complete without quantities of rice and curry. It is in Java, however, that rice is raised to its highest status as a food. If he who goes exploring among the foods of the world is a connoisseur he may well pause in Java, devoting days and weeks to exploring the variations—the nuances, one might almost say—of that Dutch-Javan food masterpiece, the rijst-tafel (rice table).

Rice is boiled to flaky whiteness and spread evenly on platters, each of which is to serve as an individual dish. But this rice, good as it is in itself, and later because of its borrowed flavors, is as yet only the foundation of the dish, the "table" as the Dutch have it. On it are placed little heaps of choice tid-bits limited in variety only by the genius and imagination of the chef and his master's pocket book.

Feasting is something of an institution among well-to-do Koreans. Once or twice a year the wealthy rice landers go to Seoul, the capital, and invite small armies of friends and acquaintances to dine with them that their prestige may be heightened in the eyes of their world. Half a dozen or more meats may be served at such a feast—beef, mutton, venison, fowls, fish and oysters. Rice, of course, holds an important place on the menu. Seaweed, cooked in oil and served with slices of red pepper; and kimchee, a kind of sauerkraut, are favorite side dishes. The guests eat their portions from little individual tables.

How They Eat in Japan

In Japan, too, guests at feasts eat from low, small, separate tables, their dishes being served usually in the kitchen. An exceptional feast is likely to be marked by the appearance of the piece de resistance—usually, fish—whole before the guests. A favorite food for this sort of treatment is a big baked red snapper. It is placed on a table of its own in the center of a circle of the guest table, and portions are served from it by a servant.

The little tables at a Japanese feast are packed with a varied array of individual dishes. The guest probably will find clear chicken soup, the inevitable covered dish of rice, a slab of raw fish, roast bird, shrimp fritters, fruit, and various pickled greens. He may find, too, the most characteristic of all Japanese edibles, pickled chrysanthemum petals. For dessert he will have rice cakes and sweetened bean paste, a stiff, jelly-like substance, not unlike Turkish paste.

At Japanese lunas the traveler is told that "Bombay duck" can be had at a reasonable price. The hungry customer visions a fat fowl but the waiter brings in plates of smoked fish, about two inches long and as thick as a dime. The menu also includes pickled seaweed, seaweed jelly, and chutney which resembles pickled eel, but is almost as hot as Mexican chile. More raw than cooked fish is eaten by Japanese. Raw baby octopuses are particularly popular. "Japanese Limburger" is not a cheese but a Japanese pickled dillpick, or long, white radish.

Traveling still farther eastward on his circumnavigation of the food world, our explorer would still have to pass through the Pacific Islands before completing his journey. Tahiti may be taken as typical of this region. There preparation for a feast means killing the fatted pig. The animal is usually roasted whole with yams and native plantains. Coconut sauce and coconut milk complete the feast, which is served on a huge banana leaf spread on the floor. The guests squat about this green "board" eating with their fingers.

Mexico Relies on Corn

When Mexico is reached, the traveler finds that corn or maize is the staff of life. But to the American used to his substantial and sizable loaf it is likely to appear a somewhat frail prop. Most of the Mexican corn is not milled into meal or flour. It is laboriously crushed with small stone rollers by hand, in millions of kitchens and dooryards. The crushed grain is then moistened into a stiff paste and cooked on a griddle into what the average visitor from north of the Rio Grande would term a "tough, slabby pancake." These are tortillas, the most generally used articles of food in Mexico. They are cooked in the home, in restaurants, over braziers in the market place, or taken cold by laborers in their lunch packets. Nor are they unknown on the tables of the prosperous. Wherever food appears in Mexico the tortilla stands well to the fore.

Not only does the tortilla look unappetizing to the outsider; it is sure to prove unappetizing if he follows his first impulse and treats it like a pancake, for it is tough and rather tasteless. But, treated as bread, the tortilla will make a much better impression. The proper trick is to roll it lightly so that it will be manageable and retain its heat. It then becomes a breadstick whose spiraled end will melt a bit of butter and furnish a really delectable bite.

Corn contributes to another important Mexican dish, the tamales. The raw corn paste is flattened out as though tortillas were to be made. On the paste is spread a thin layer of minced meat and pepper pods. The two layers are then folded up so that the meat and pepper forms an inner core with a sort of capsule of corn paste about it. Each piece is then wrapped in a corn shuck made pliable by soaking in water. Numbers of these are placed in a tin vessel and cooked by steam, then served piping hot both with fire and pepper.

Long-Lived Bushmen

Centenarians are common in South Africa, and unless persons are considerably over one hundred their age is not regarded as extraordinary. A bushman, named Jordan, considered an excellent authority to be between one hundred and twenty and one hundred and thirty years old, claims to be South Africa's oldest inhabitant. He is only 4 feet 6 inches high, and is still very active, has good sight, but is rather deaf. His simple wants are seen to by kindly disposed people, so that the old fellow has no need to draw on his old age pension, which he is banking, he says, for a rainy day.
